Largest Circulation in the District Reading Matter on Every Page WASHINGTON CITY:

CROSBY S. NOYES ..... Editor.

Where to Advertise. THE STAR, which, from its start, has been the paper of the people, has, by the pains taken to make it a safe, reliable, newsy and acceptable visitor to every family, gained a popularity amongst all classes of the community second to that of no newspaper in the country with the same area of population. Keeping full pace with the extraordinary growth of the city, and reaching every household in the District, and a wide range outside, THE STAR has now attained a circulation very much larger than that of all the other city dailies combined. This is no idle claim, but one we are prepared to establish at any time by "beoks and papers." And this circulation. as stated above, is universal, reaching the business community, the wealthy, the great industrial forces, the skilled mechanics, the laboring men, the bankers, the merchants, the house keepers, the government employes, the Congressmen-in short, there is no circle where THE STAR is not a regular and welcome guest. The result is that THE STAR affords unsurpassed advantages as a medium of communication between all classes of the community, in the way of the adtistment of demand and supply.

A DECLINING SUN .- We are surprised that the Baltimore Sun should charge us with being "disingenuous" and "evasive" because that paper knows from its own experience how unjustly these epithets may be applied. Its city cotemporaries, the American and Gazette, are so unjust as to habitually speak of the Sun as "disingenuous," "tricky," "Jesuitical," &c. When the Sun, therefore, imputes to us want of frankness, it would be easy for us to retort in kind "you're another"; but we decline the bad example. But it must be conceded that the Sun, though distinguished for its candor and ingenuousness, is no longer the paper of the people. Since its proprietor became rich it is always found allied with wealthy hunkerism, the secession aristocracy, and all the big monopolies. It is naturally Mr. Garrett's devoted henchman, and quite as naturally it caters to the pro-slavery Bourbonism of Maryland, palliates all the riotous deeds of the secession element in Baltimore, and follows with affectionate interest the movements and fortunes of "President Jefferson Davis." To be at once a millionaire, a secessionist and a Bourbon is a combination of endowments sure to enlist the devout reverence of the Sun, and when Mr. Corcoran, in his "eloquent letter" to the secession Southern Historical society meeting in Baltimore, expressed his warm sympathy for the object of that society, (which object the Sun, too, endorsed as "in the cause of truth." and which, according to one of the speakers, is "to secure the cooperation of all who have not lost faith or hope in the cause,") it could not be doubted that the Sun was thenceforth fully enlisted as the ally of Mr. C. in his crusade against the District government. It could not be doubted that the Sun, disregarding the interest that Baltimore and its business men have in the wonderful growth of Washington, whereby so many customers are created for the Baltimore markets, would champion the secession fossilism of Washington and instruct its editors and writers to "pitch in" against the District government. We are sorry to see a paper, once influential, enterprising, and of advanced ideas, content to follow the secession rut, and act as obstructionists in the path of the progress of the allied cities of Washington and Baltimore.

Having demonstrated their ability to build up a great and powerful order in the interests of agriculture, the Grangers now propose to increase its value and usefulness through the agency of a new bureau in connection with the National Grange in this city. Originally founded with the purpose of promoting social intercourse among the people of agricultural sections, this organizations has grown into one of practical value pecuniarily to its members. who have shared in the advantages it affords for buying and selling on the cooperative plan. No inconsiderable amount of reform in the matter of legislation has also been brought about in certain sections through the influence of the order, but these results thus far have been simply local in their character. To enhance the practical usefulness of the order, it is now proposed to establish in this city a statistical bureau to collect and disseminate information relative to the crops. Subordirate granges will report direct to the state grange all information of interest relating to the crops. The different state granges will report to the statistical bureau of the order at Washington. This bureau will compile from these reports a monthly bulletin; will simultaneously transmit it by telegraph to the different state granges, and these in turn will distribute copies of this bulletin to every subordinate grange within its jurisdiction This bulletin being based on reports from practical farmers in every grange in the country, it is believed will be more satisfactory than the bulletins of this character which are made up from estimates and from the reports of a few correspondents, whose facilities, in many cases, are not such as to enable them to give accurate statements relative to the condition of the crops. The new statistical bureau will use the telegraph freely, and correspondence between it and the different state granges will be carried on through this channel, in order that the latest information may be embodied in this monthly bulletin. In this connection it may be stated. from a semi-official source, that the Order is at present growing at the rate of over two thousand subordinate granges per month and in membership at the rate of about 100,000 within An election is being held in New Hampshire to-day for state officers, members of the legislature, &c. The canvass has been very tame Both parties have confidence as to the result and it is possible there will be no election of governor by the people. It is thought, in that event, the prohibition members in the legislature will vote for McCutchens, the republican candidate, on the ground that he would veto any repeal of the present liquor law. McCutchens, by the by, is quite a character. Not a granger, he is called the farmer candidate, having been a tiller of the soil for more than 30 year a A correspondent of the New York Times, who recently interviewed him, found him on his farm feeding cattle, in rough homespun costume, and with no coat on. He is a brawny specimen of his class, six feet and two or three inches in stature, broad-shouldered and sturdy. His large, square, strongly-marked face is bronzed by exposure to the rough climate, and is surmounted by thick, obstinate grav hair. With regard to his chances for election, he says that, so far as his personal feelings are concerned, he would rather be allowed to remain quietly at home attending to his work, but he thinks it important that the republican party should carry the state. The administration, he thinks, ought not to lose another state. Whatever its shortcomings may be, and whatever evils and corruptions may have sprung up, he sees no safety in allowing the control of affairs to drift into the nands of the democrats. .

There was quite a lively discussion in the Senate this afternoon on the bill appropriating $10,000 to pay the expenses of the District investigation, as will be seen by reference to our report of Congressional proceedings. There was no objection from any quarter to appropriating all that may be necessary for a thorough investigation, but there seemed to be a determination to restrict the expenditure the actual needs of the committee. Mr. Thurman, in the committee-room, noti-fled witnesses that they would only b allowed pay for days when summoned to testify. Altogether, it is a bad outlook for the noble army of willing witnesses who are hankering for a chance to hang around for a month or two at $250 per day, and tell what they don't know about the charges against the District govern-

The wicked story that George Alfred Townsend rammed the umbrella down the throat of Walker, the correspondent of the Chicago Times, and then opened it to its full capacity so that it can't be withdrawn, isn't true. The little fellow seems puffed up a good deal, but it isn't from that cause.

Mr. Conkling seems to be very dull of comprehension in regard to the necessity for an appropriation of ten thousand dollars to defray the expenses of the joint committee to investigate district affairs. He apparently labors under the impression, from the amount of disinterested patriotism preached by the memorialists and their blowers and strikers, that the whole army of them stood ready to come forward and tell their little second-hand stories free of expense to any body, and particularly without cost to the government. The honorable gentle-TUESDAY ...... March 10, 1974. man is widely mistaken as to the character of our professional obstructionists. The per diem of the witnesses is more than the majority of them have ever earned in following any legitimate occupation, and they look upon an investigation of any sort before Congress as a perfect windfall. That is the main interest the most of them have in getting them up. If they don't succeed in getting Congress to pay the fees of their attorneys the public treasury will be

| |An English genius named Blake has invented an ingenious fuse to be used as a fire-alarm in private houses. A New Yorker experimenting the other day with this protective fuse burned his house up, and the invention does not sell well now in his neighborhood.

Our streets would be swept pretty clean by the wind of the past two or three days if it wasn't for the confounded sand up in Montgomery county. The supply of dust from that source seems to be inexhaustible.

The poor unfortunates who couldn't get here to try our inauguration-day weather last year enght to be in Washington to-day. It isn't quite so cold as it was then, but it will do.
